Weitz & Luxenberg, P.C. is a powerhouse firm that performs groundbreaking work in personal injury and mass tort litigation. It handles thousands of cases and is renowned for winning record-breaking awards. Weitz & Luxenberg knows the stakes are high, and the firm promises every client a lawyer's full attention, compassion and excellence.

RAISING THE BAR

Weitz & Luxenberg sets the standard in the mass tort arena, firmly positioned on the cutting edge of asbestos, pharmaceuticals, catastrophic injury, medical malpractice and toxic tort litigation. The firm has the resources to handle the largest cases against the most powerful companies, and the in-house expertise to conduct all aspects of litigation from discovery to verdict. Acknowledged leaders in the field, these lawyers never take a back seat or let others do the work. With decades of successful experience, top-notch personnel, vast resources and innovative strategies, Weitz & Luxenberg consistently gets the best results.

COMPASSION AND RESPONSIVENESS

The firm believes that every client deserves lawyers ready to give nothing less than their very best. Each client is made to feel comfortable, confident and cared for during the long and sometimes difficult litigation process. The firm's client relations department stands ready to serve, quickly routing every query to the appropriate department and assuring that every client gets a thorough answer to any question, large or small. The client relations department allows the firm to offer individualized, personalized service while expertly handling a broad range of cases. This balance of large-firm capabilities and small-firm service has resulted in landmark verdicts and settlements for clients.

EXTRAORDINARY SUCCESS

Weitz & Luxenberg has a reputation for spectacular courtroom victories, consistently achieving record-breaking awards for its clients. The firm's impressive record of success includes multimillion-dollar verdicts and the highest settlements in the country. The firm has obtained billions of dollars in verdicts and settlements for victims of asbestos disease, including a recent $25 million verdict against DaimlerChrysler and $37 million against the Keasbey Company. It has also led the bar in pharmaceutical litigation, from breast implants to Vioxx, Bextra and Celebrex. Weitz & Luxenberg recently won a $13 million verdict against Merck in the company's home state of New Jersey.

A WINNING TEAM

The firm's success would be impossible without its world-class team of dedicated and skilled lawyers. Weitz & Luxenberg has unparalleled strategic depth, fueled by lawyers in a wide array of specialties who are among the best in their fields. The diversity and cooperation among these top-tier professionals ensures expert representation for each client—and makes the firm a force to be reckoned with. It starts with the hands-on leadership of co-founder and senior partner Perry Weitz, who heads the firm with Arthur Luxenberg, co-founder and managing partner, and Robert Gordon, partner and chief trial attorney and extends to a roster of stellar professionals. Charles Ferguson, head of the Asbestos Litigation Unit, manages all facets of litigation and settlements for the firm's thousands of asbestos clients. James Long is a senior trial attorney who is one of the most respected litigators of high profile Asbestos cases in the New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey regions. His accomplishments are best exemplified by the monumental $37 million Keasbey verdict achieved this past May. Michael Roberts is a senior trial attorney with an impressive history of achieving some of the firm's most substantial verdicts for asbestos and personal injury clients, including the $53 million Brown v. Bendix verdict and the $47 million Croteau v. Con Ed/Lilco verdict. Paul Pennock is head and chief litigator of the Drug & Medical Device Litigation Unit, with extensive national leadership experience in such litigations as Accutane, Propulsid, Rezulin, Baycol, Zyprexa, Guidant and silicone breast implants. Jerry Kristal, senior trial attorney and manager of the firm's southern New Jersey office, has vast litigation experience and has achieved the aforementioned significant recent asbestos and pharmaceutical verdicts against DaimlerChrysler and Merck. Robin Greenwald heads the Environmental Toxic Tort Unit and has broad governmental agency experience, including tenure as chief environmental attorney in the U.S. Attorney's office, Southern District. Senior trial attorney Ellen Relkin handles complex matters involving toxic torts and medical devices, and was recently accorded the distinction of being named a certified trial attorney in the state of New Jersey. Lisa Nathanson Busch heads the firm's Bankruptcy department and is the firm's liaison to almost every bankruptcy trust involved in Asbestos Litigation. In addition, she heads up the Client Intake and New Case Departments of the Asbestos Unit. Gary Klein is the head of the firm's Negligence Unit and also oversees nearly every facet of the firm's day-to-day operations. Senior trial attorney Edward Bosek has a track record of achieving impressive verdicts in catastrophic personal injury and general negligence cases. Allan Zelikovic is the su-
